Planning Tips

Whether you work for a large corporation, own a small business, police the streets, or teach at a University, you can impact children's lives by exposing them to new ideas and opportunities.

The most successful Days are creative and productive. Think about what makes your company unique, and most importantly use your resources!

Below are tips to help make your day a success:

- Students can learn from every employee and department
Ask employees from every level and department within the organization to share their work experiences and encourage girls and boys to ask questions. For example, ask the payroll department to demonstrate how employees get paid, explain why deductions are taken out, how time off is factored in, etc.
- Keep activities short
Interactive activities that are 45 to 55 minutes in length are best.
- A recommendation for girls and boys ages 8-18
Younger students may have a shorter attention span during activities.
- Introduce students to technology
Show girls and boys how important technology is to your business. Schedule time for them to work on computers or other office equipment. For example, let them view your website and see how business is conducted through the site or have them participate in a conference call with another office that is participating in the program.
- Talk to school officials about Take Our Daughters and Sons to Work
Work with your child's teachers to let them know that he or she will spend the day doing educational activities at work.
- Complete the enclosed Activity Log and the Take Our Daughters and Sons to Work Day Evaluation Form
Students can take these forms back to school to demonstrate their participation in the educational activities at your work place.

- Keep students safe
Provide adequate safety and protective gear for girls and boys. Be sure to have a range of sizes available
- Take Our Daughters and Sons to Work activities should introduce participants to the vast range of potential job opportunities, while asking children to consider how their future work will fit into their overall lives. The major goal for the activities is to encourage girls and boys to think about how their dreams for the future-both for their work and family lives-can be achieved. For example, if they plan to have a career that requires them to travel or work a night shift, who will take care of things at home? The activities are meant to be fun, allow for lots of conversation, and engage girls and boys in thinking about work and home life in ways they may never have before.
- Ice Breaker Activities may help to set the tone for the day
A few samples are provided below:
 - Conversation Cafe:
Children should be asked, "What do you want to change in the world?" This activity goes a step further and asks young participants to consider their future work roles. Will you work indoors or outside? Will you travel? Will your job be fascinating or difficult? The children will also think through what they want their home lives to be like. Do you envision your home in the city, suburbs, or country? Do you plan to have a pet?
 - Imagining the Future:
Through a dynamic problem-solving activity, children will build awareness of how they might approach the challenges of managing work and family life. Participants will be asked to find solutions for problems like whether to work late to finish an important project or attend your child's school play.
 - Ask the Adults:
This activity turns young people into reporters and gives them the opportunity to interview adults about their experiences in managing work and home life. It will be interesting to see how adults' answers compare to the young participants' ideas

Did You Know?

- In 2015, 39 million employed Americans participated in Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work[®] Day.
- Almost 82 percent of adults aware of Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work[®] Day believe that the day is an educational experience for participating youth.
- 3 million Companies participated in Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work[®] Day in 2015.
- In 1991-1992, the Ms. Foundation began discussion of the research finding that young women's loss of self-esteem was one of the reasons they were making poor life choices and were not doing well in school.
- That same year educators in the five boroughs of NYC noticed the patterns for young women was: lack of self-esteem, poor class attendance, and low expectations for jobs.
- The educators contacted the Ms. Foundation with their concerns. A pilot program was set up in one of the boroughs of New York City after Gloria Steinem and Marie Wilson met with child development experts and educators.
- During the event, their professional mentors asked participating young women a focus questions: "If you could grow up to be anything what would it be?"

- At the end of the pilot program the participating young women concluded that they must stay in school, pass their grades, and work on their self-esteem.
- AP's Parade Magazine's editor, Walter Anderson, having heard about the pilot program, interviewed Ms. Steinem in September 1991, and the one-day local event went national. The first Take Our Daughters To Work® Day was held on April 28, 1998. (It is was decided to celebrate the Day on the 4th Thursday of April.)
- In 2002, it was decided that young men could benefit from being part of the program, they were added to the program and the focus was broadened to work, life, family and community.
- In 2007, the program transitioned into Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work Foundation. Carolyn McKecuen, who had worked with the Take Our Daughters To Work for fourteen years, was named President of the Foundation, with headquarters in Elizabeth City, NC.
- This past year, 2014, over 39 million youth and adults participated in the activities in three million workplaces throughout the United States.

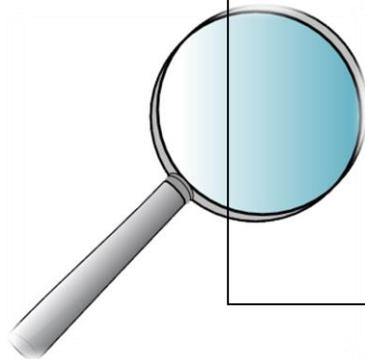

Who Do You Think You Are?

When you look in a mirror, who do you see? You, Obviously! But how do you see yourself? Are you more likely to focus on, your strengths or your limitations? Our thinking powerfully influences how we feel about ourselves. It's as if our thoughts are a magnifying glass, increasing whatever we focus on, so it is really important to focus on the positive!

Write your first and last name vertically in the box below. Use the letters to write words that describe your positive qualities.

Here's an example:

Sociable
Artistic
Musical
Jokey
Open minded
Nuts about science
Enthusiastic
Someone you can count on

Making Your Dreams Mean Business

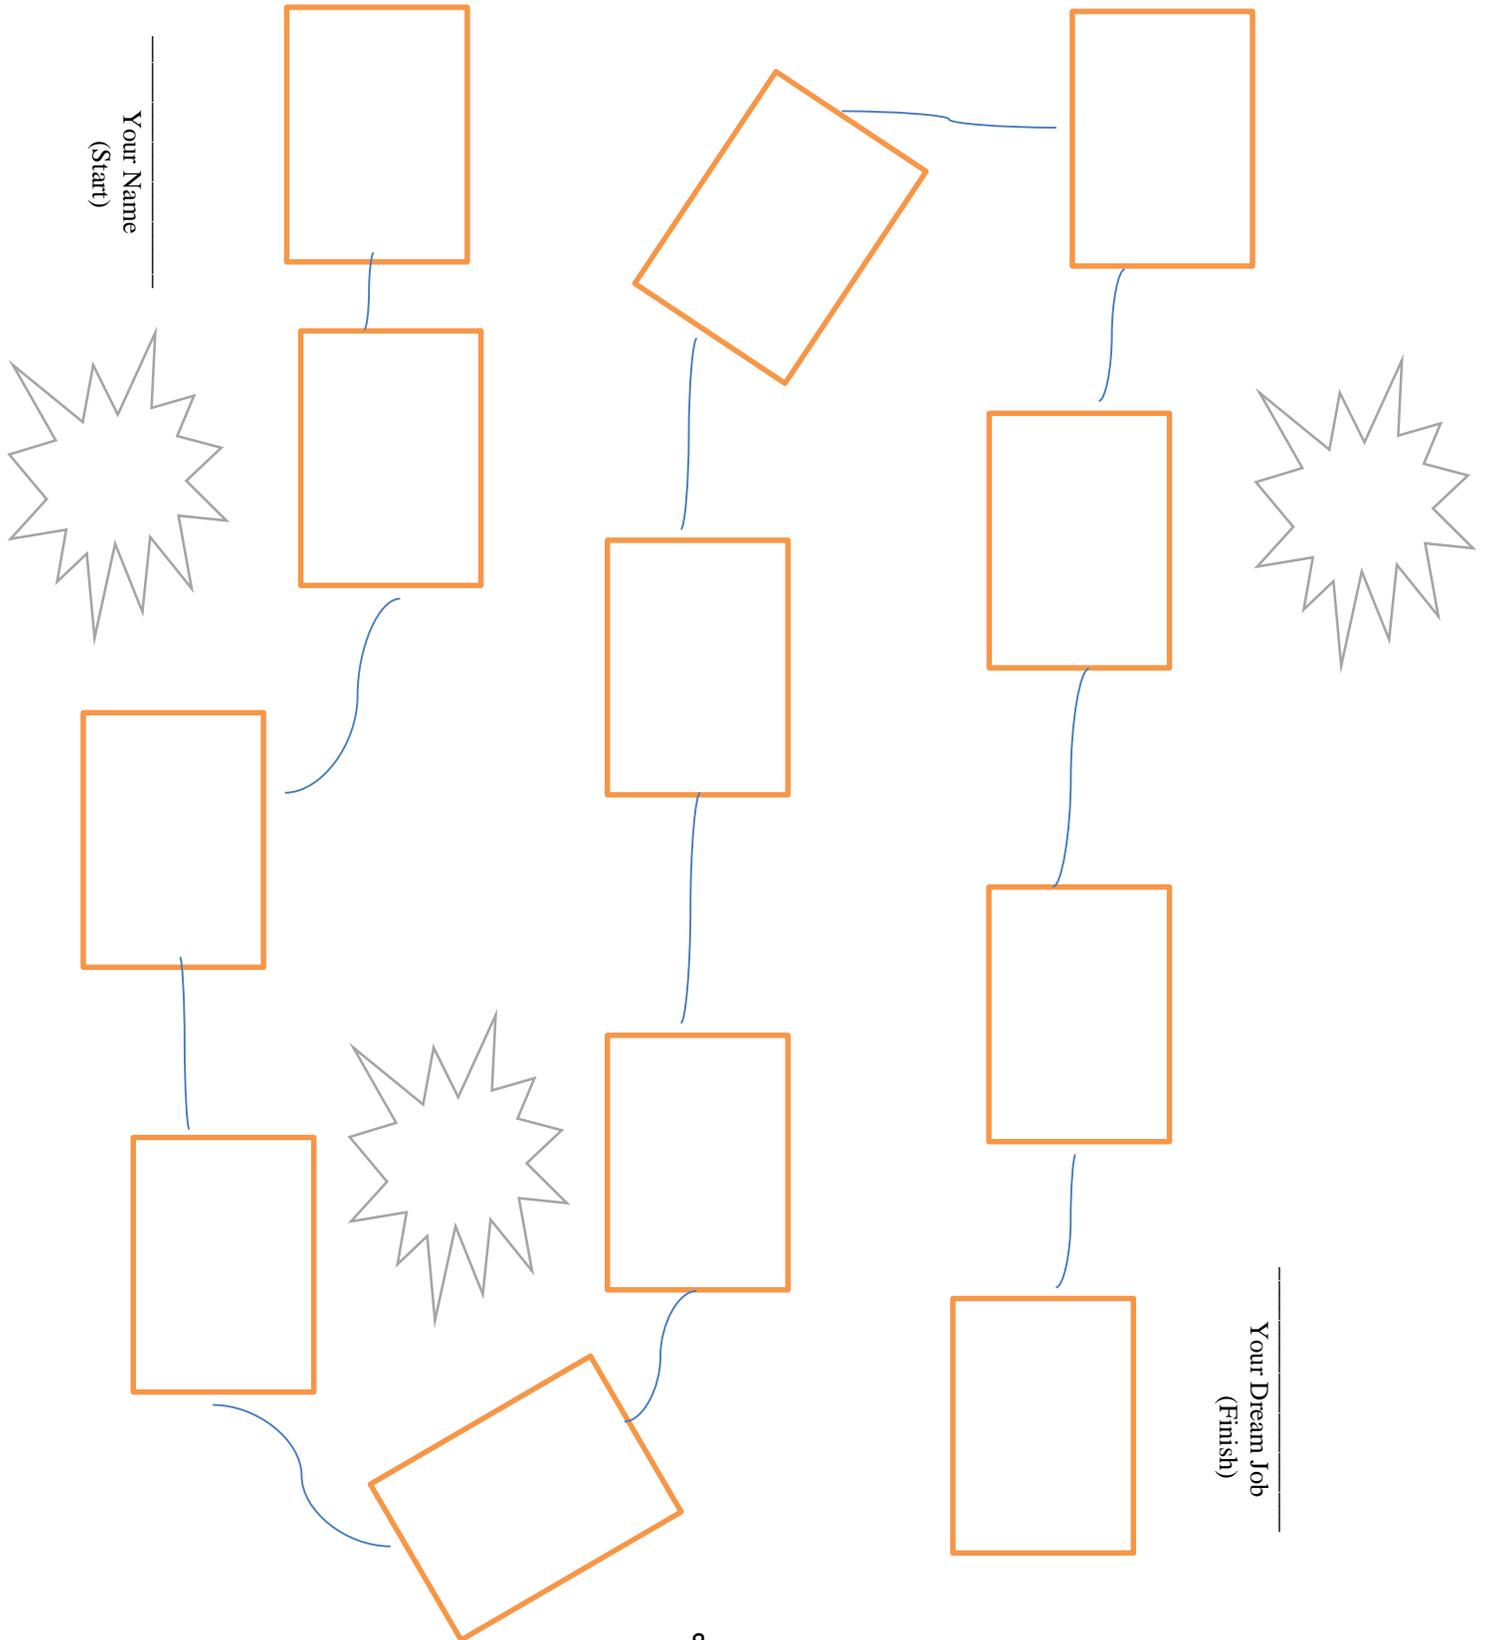

What job do you dream of doing when you grow up? You might dream of being a chef, pilot, electrician, artist, symphony conductor, surgeon, college professor, photographer, fire fighter, you name it! Whatever your dream, do you know what it will take to make it come true? In other words, do you know how to get from here to there?

When you set off on any journey, it's wise to have a map in hand to help you chart your way. Fill in the "dream map" below. Start by writing your name at the start and your dream job at the finish. Then fill in the squares and triangles. The squares are stepping stones that take you where you want to go. The triangles are stumbling blocks that trip you up and get in your way: avoid them at all costs!

Here is a list of possible Stepping Stones and Stumbling Blocks. You can choose from this list and/or come up with examples of your own.

Do homework	Do drugs	Talk on the phone all night	Take courses in math and science	Break the law, land in jail
Select a college	Graduate from high school	Study	Find a mentor	Get terribly sick
Watch tons of TV	Dog eats homework	Lean on friends	Earn money for college	Apply to college
Get thrown out of college for cheating	Talk to someone doing the job that interest me	Break a leg	Get special training	Eat well and exercise
Finish middle school	Drive drunk	Do research about this job	Graduate from high school	Do summer work similar to dream job

Years of Work toward a Lifetime of Confidence

Everybody agrees that it's good to be self-confident but what does this mean exactly? According to the dictionary, self-confidence is "a feeling of trust in one's abilities, qualities, and judgment." With self-confidence, it's easier to take a risk, try something new, and to stay true to yourself in the face of peer pressure.

Take this quiz to find out how confident you are today. Read the statements and circle your answer, either 1, 2, or 3.

	Always	Sometimes	Rarely
1. I set positive goals for myself.	1	2	3
2. I am able to accept criticism without getting upset	1	2	3
3. I let people know what I think and feel, even if I'm angry or in disagreement with someone else.	1	2	3
4. I ask for help when I need it.	1	2	3
5. I don't worry about what other people think of me.	1	2	3
6. I like meeting new people.	1	2	3
7. I believe I am a valuable friend.	1	2	3
8. If I make a mistake, I admit it and try to learn from it.	1	2	3
9. I like trying new things- a sport, food, game, a new language, etc.	1	2	3
10. In general, I am happy with myself.	1	2	3
11. I am happy when something good happens to a friend.	1	2	3
12. I know I can make a positive difference in this world in my own unique way.	1	2	3
13. I tend to see the good in any situation.	1	2	3

Add up all the circled numbers. TOTAL SCORE: _____

If you scored between 13 and 18: You got it! Go out and do great things today. Help boost someone else's confidence too- encourage their dreams or pay them a compliment.

If you scored between 19 and 25: Keep focusing on your positive qualities, trust in yourself, and take time to develop both old and new interests.

If you scored between 26 and 32: Try something new today-bring a friend along for support (and fun). Write down the positive qualities you admire in one of your favorite people, then develop these qualities for yourself.

If you scored between 33 and 39: You could use a confidence boost! Talk to an adult you trust about what is special about you. Do a good deed for someone else and notice how this makes you feel.

The Future Is Me

In the space below, draw or write a news story featuring you and something you hope to accomplish someday. For example: "Sarah Stein is the First Woman to Pitch in the Major Leagues!" or "Pedro Lopez, Brain Researcher, Discovers Cure for Autism!"

Free to Be You and Me

Have you heard Free to Be You and Me? The songs and stories on this CD, first produced in 1972, question gender stereotypes-Who says boys can't play with dolls? Who says girls can't compete or run like the wind? - And send the message that you can be anything in your life, whether you're a boy or a girl.

We've come a long way since the 1970's. Today women can be lawyers and men can stay home and take care of children-and not be looked down upon. Even so, many people still have strong opinions about the roles males and females should play in society. Do you?

Take this quiz with a friend or family member and compare your answers. You may be surprised by what you think! Circle each line indicating your opinion.

1. A woman can be just as effective a President as a man. Agree Disagree
2. Boys need to be athletic to be popular. Agree Disagree
3. I feel free to be who I am in school. Agree Disagree
4. Boys are better than girls in most sports. Agree Disagree
5. Men make better bosses than women. Agree Disagree
6. Women are better than men at taking care of children. Agree Disagree
7. I feel free to be who I am in my family. Agree Disagree
8. Girls need to be pretty to be popular. Agree Disagree
9. Men are better than women at working and earning money. Agree Disagree
10. Girls are more in touch with their feelings than boys. Agree Disagree
11. Boys and men shouldn't cry in public. Agree Disagree
12. I feel free to be who I am with my friends. Agree Disagree

Change the Way the World Works

You are an advice columnist for a city newspaper. When something gets out of balance in a person's home life, work life, or both, they write to you for advice. Everybody loves reading what you have to say. Your answers are always wise, creative, and often funny too.

Read the following letters. What's your advice? Write your responses on a separate page.

Ask _____ (Your first name)
_____ Keeps Families Working & Playing!

Dear _____,

I've noticed that you gets lots of letters from parents whose kids play sports. I'm a mom and I play sports too. I've been captain of a local volleyball team for 5 years. My 10- year-old daughter Amy loves acting and has a part in the school play. Here's the problem: My team has a championship playoff on the opening night of the play! I've told Amy that her dad will come to the first night and I will come the next, but she's upset. What do you think I should do? My team needs me and so does my daughter.

Sincerely, Team Player

Dear _____,

I'm a lawyer. My father is very old and lives several hours away from here. Next week he has to go to the hospital for surgery and the doctor says he shouldn't go home alone. There aren't any other family member's nearby, so dad needs me to stay with him for a few days while he recuperates. Normally, I'd be happy to do this but next week I have to argue an important case in district court. What should I do?

Sincerely, Dutiful Daughter

Dear _____,

My wife and I are young architects and just had our first child. We both took 3 months off from work to care for our baby boy. Our maternity and paternity leaves are about to end, so it's time to find childcare and head back to work. I'm considering taking a year off to be a stay-at-home Dad. My wife thinks it's a good idea, but my brother thinks it will hurt my career. He says future hiring managers won't take me seriously as a committed architect. What should I do? I don't want to lose ground in my career and I don't want to miss a minute of my son's first year.

Sincerely, Dad Committed to Work & Family

Dear _____,

I'm an emergency room nurse. I love my work, but it's very stressful. I treat accident victims and very sick people all day long and don't have a minute to sit down. My wife finishes work earlier than me, so she picks up the kids from after school and make dinner. She'd like me to help the kids with homework and bedtime, but I'm so stressed out and tired after work that I'm not much help. My wife says I don't pull my weight at home and that my kids deserve better. She's right but I don't know how to change things. Your advice?

Sincerely, Nurse Needs a Nurse

Dear _____,

I'm a single mom who works two jobs to put food on the table for me and my two kids who are 7 and 9. All my life I've dreamed of owning a catering company. I just got accepted to a competitive two-year college program that will teach me how to start and run my own business. This is the opportunity I've been waiting for! I even received a full scholarship. It all sounds perfect; however classes meet four evenings a week, so I won't get to see my kids on those nights. Their grandmother has agreed to babysit for them, but she's pressuring me to postpone school for 5 years until the kids are older and more independent. I want to do what's best for my kids and what's best for my future. What do you advise? Should I go to school now or wait?

Sincerely, Fork in the Road

Dear _____,

I'm an administrative assistant at a successful medical research company. I'm committed to my job and work late into the evenings. My company just opened a lab in partnership with the local high school so we can mentor students interested in science careers and give something back to the community. I like this idea! Here's the problem: My boss has asked me to volunteer 5 hours a month to coordinate the mentoring program. I don't have a single extra minute in my day! This would mean coming in earlier or staying even later without any extra pay. How can I say "no" without giving the message that I'm not supportive of the company?

Sincerely, Stretched Thin

Shaping the Future

The future isn't as far away as you might think! The future gets shaped by the decisions you make and the actions you take today. Follow the 5 steps below and decide what actions you'd like to take today to shape your future tomorrow...

Step 1: Read down the left hand column and check all of the communities you belong to.

Step 2: Write the name of each community on the space provided. If you belong to any other communities, write these down under "Others".

Step 3: Stay (*) communities where you play an active role: you help out, you speak up when something seems unfair, you care about others in the community, etc.

Step 4: Read down the left-hand column and ask this question about every community: "In my opinion, is there anything that needs changing for the better in this community?" If "yes", circle the name of the community.

Step 5: Write in the right-hand column the name of three of the "circled" communities and describe one thing that needs changing for the better in each.

I Am A Part of Many Communities...

A planet: _____

A country: _____

A state: _____

A town: _____

A neighborhood: _____

A street: _____

A family/families: _____

A school: _____

Sports team(s): _____

Music group(s): _____

Clubs/activities: _____

Place of worship: _____

Others: _____

If I could change things for the better in 3 communities, this is what I'd change...

Community 1

This needs changing for the better

Community 2

This needs changing for the better

Community 3

This needs changing for the better

Personal Action Plan

Name:

Personal Goal

You have already discovered that doing well in education takes some work. List two things you can do immediately to help achieve your education goals (for example, completing all your assignments and bringing up your grades).

Skills

As you observed on the job site, every job requires a minimum set of skills. Write three specific skills that you will need in the future (for example, a musician will require the ability to read music, a computer programmer will need advanced computer training and a business person will require proficiency in math). Then decided how you will obtain or strengthen that skill.

Skills Needed

Ways I can obtain or improve this skill are:

Keeping Your Commitment

In the world of work, when goals are set, employees are accountable for meeting them. Keep this Personal Action Plan and check it in six months. Ask yourself, "How am I are doing?" and then adjust your goals or set new ones to meet your plans for the future.
